

Application of Validation Principles to the Training Quality System Part 8 – Training Process Documentation

Paul L. Pluta

By

Nov 23, 2021 8:00 am EST

INTRODUCTION Applications of the lifecycle approach to process validation and associated concepts to the site Training Quality System (TQS) provide significant benefits to an employee training program. This paper continues a series of discussions (1-7) describing these applications. Past discussions have addressed components and activities in the actual training of employees including training content development (2), trainer qualification (3), and trainee prerequisites for training (4). The training process integrat

Source URL: <http://www.ivtnetwork.com/article/application-validation-principles-training-quality-system-part-8-%E2%80%93-training-process>