CHALLENGES IMPACTING VALIDATION Industry had not experienced or expected a full-blown global pandemic until COVID-19 during the past year. Not only has this widespread terrifying event created a significant number of challenges for all functional areas including validation, it has also challenged the production, staffing, economic, and distribution activities as well as cleaning and sanitization efforts. Work arrangements such as remote working and staggered staffing have created several challenges for validation teams. For example, some of the challenges created by the pandemic include: Delays...
